

DUNBAR

AT 39TH

*The
neighbourhood
you know
and love*

A time-honoured location

You feel it instinctively: the subtle sophistication, the established serenity of a classic Vancouver neighbourhood.

A quiet nostalgia exists here – for the poignant passage of time; the generations of children playing childhood games in best friends’ backyards; the ritual hosting of Sunday dinners in tasteful homes.

Yet a desire for progress persists here, too. This is a place very much connected to its city. Its residents work downtown, frequent the best restaurants, know the city intimately. But it is a place that feels no need to prove itself. It does not follow a trend. Instead, it sets a thoughtful precedent.

Nowadays, Dunbar is a more modern take on Vancouver’s old soul.

Stately traditional homes rub shoulders with exemplary modern architecture. Lively cafés and shops offer easy amenity and social possibility; yet the best appeal of this area is the area itself, and Dunbar has no need to pretend otherwise. And now, for the first time – and with much consideration and care – the area is opening its arms to multifamily living; embracing a new era of how we live in this coveted west side neighbourhood.

Where a revered past invites an elegant future.

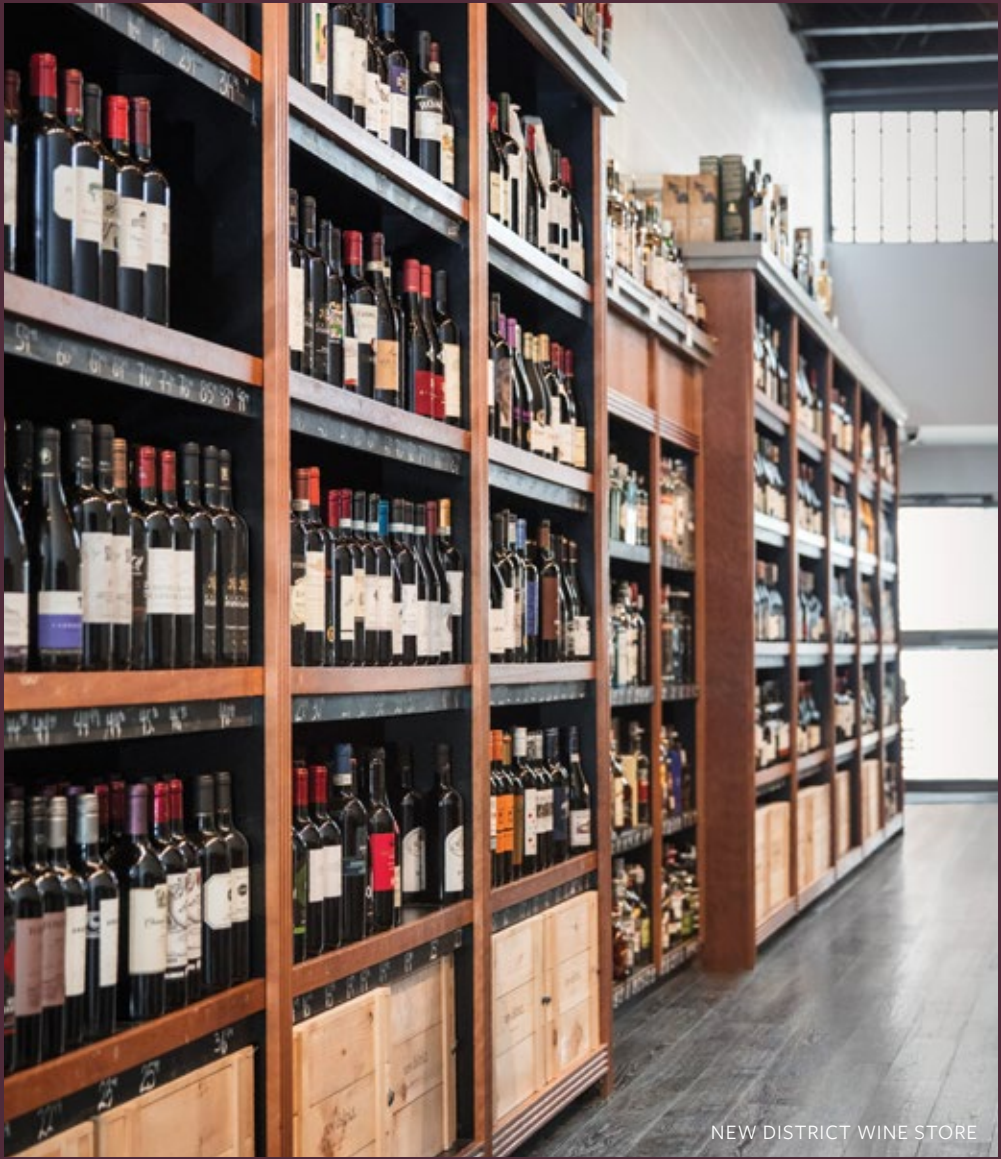

Dunbar at 39th encapsulates the essence of this distinctive location. Refined without being showy, contemporary without being flashy, it achieves the careful equilibrium of progress and elegance expected by this community. Most important, it creates a condominium living opportunity within an immortal neighbourhood of single-family houses – with a graceful presence that feels right at home.
