The translucent facade consists of a game of narrow, vertical panels of translucent and transparent glass that creates the illusion of a textured facade. It allows for optimal diffuse light in the interior. From the exterior, it becomes a glowing beacon that entices the public.

OPEN EXHIBITION LEVEL
The exhibition level is visually and symbolically open to the public, encouraging them to engage with the space. The windows are slightly recessed in order to add a layer of depth, creating an even more intriguing facade when approached by the public.
