

A stylized, geometric mountain range graphic in shades of gray, composed of overlapping, angular shapes that create a sense of depth and perspective. The mountains are rendered in a minimalist, blocky style, with some peaks and valleys clearly defined. The graphic is positioned on the left side of the image, extending towards the center.

WILD BY NATURE

Nestled between Whistler and Vancouver in beautiful Squamish, the striking collection of cottages, townhomes and duplexes at Highline by Polygon is designed for those who feel most at home in nature.

ATWELL PEAK, GARIBALDI PROVINCIAL PARK

A woman wearing a black helmet and a green long-sleeved shirt is riding a black mountain bike through a forest. She is smiling and looking towards the right. The forest has tall, thin trees and a ground covered in ferns and moss. The image is framed with a white border on the left and top, and a dark grey border on the right and bottom.

ADVENTURE CAPITAL OF CANADA

The Canadian West Coast is known the world over for its stunning nature. Landmark mountains like the Stawamus Chief, postcard-worthy inlets like Howe Sound and epic basecamps for every mountain adrenaline sport you can think of, have put Squamish on the radar of outdoor enthusiasts up and down the West Coast and beyond. Whether you hike, ride or climb, or you ski, surf or sail, you do it as much for the rush and challenge, as for the privilege of doing it in such breathtaking wilderness.

SMALL CITY VIBES

A logging town that evolved by the hand of its founding families, Squamish quickly grew into the ideal base camp for avid adventurers up and down the West Coast. Linking Vancouver and Whistler in under an hour on either side, and featuring some familiar and favourite urban trappings alongside revamped mom-and-pop shops, Squamish manages to maintain that small-town feel that's a big part of its charm.

TEAG + GRAY

BRACKENDALE

Squamish's riverfront northern suburb plays host to a spectacular annual migration of bald eagles.

DOWNTOWN

A 10-minute drive from Highline, downtown Squamish is a daily destination for life's essentials.

HOWE SOUND

This unique fjord with dramatic views is a world-renowned destination for sea kayaking, sailing, kiteboarding, paddleboarding and fishing.

RETURN TO WILD

“Rewilding” is a progressive approach to conservation. Essentially defined as returning parcels of urban and suburban land to Mother Nature’s hand, either by leaving them alone or by reseeding them with species from native landscapes. Rewilding is a critical dimension of the Garibaldi Springs story, adding to the lifestyle and longevity of its communities.

Highline’s 60 homes share the northernmost section of Garibaldi Springs. Homes are terraced onto the hillside, providing uninterrupted, west-facing views for many homes.

REWILDING

Polygon’s masterplan for Garibaldi Springs returns 72% of the property back to the hands of Mother Nature.

MODERN MOUNTAIN ARCHITECTURE

Highline homes are comfortable base camps for families who enjoy spending as much time outdoors as possible. These modern mountain homes make a strong first impression with sharply pitched rooflines and black framed windows, accented by engineered stone and natural wood timbers.

CREATURE COMFORTS

Home interiors are as cozy as they are modern. Bright and open spaces are designed around a gourmet kitchen with a spacious island that becomes a natural gathering point for friends and family. Recharge in spa-inspired ensuites with dual sinks, under-cabinet motion lighting and luxurious showers with integrated bench seating and a hand-held shower wand.
